

Harlem Biospace

Incubator Lab

New York, New York

Burgeoning Biotech Community

Founded by Samuel Sia and Christine Kovich as the first of its kind in NYC, Harlem Biospace promotes life science start ups in NYC by providing an affordable, shared lab space to up and coming biotech companies.

Design Collaboration

BAM and the client worked together to design a space tailored to the needs of researchers and scientists.

Future Cures

Conducting research across the life science industry, results may lead anywhere from developing new diagnostics for allergies and infectious diseases to new drugs against prostate, lung and other cancers.

